

Mark & Sue welcome you to The Navigation Inn, a popular watering hole for Huddersfield canal boaters and walkers. This is a family run business, established in February 2004, originating from the local village of Greenfield.

Next to the Huddersfield Narrow Canal, this stone pub was built in 1806 to slake the thirst of navvies cutting the Standedge Tunnel. It comprises a open-plan bar with three hand pumps and an L-shaped interior.

A venue for the popular Saddleworth Rushcart Festival in August. Dog friendly (please mention if booking a table) and families welcome at all times.

All our dishes are home made and freshly prepared for each order. Our aim is to provide quality food and a good service in a relaxed atmosphere by our friendly team of staff, but we do ask you to bear with us at busy times.

Sometimes it is difficult to answer the telephone during food service therefore we have introduced an online booking system, hopefully making things easier. For bookings of 8 people and over please ring the pub to book, but should you struggle booking a table online for the date & time you wish give us a quick call as we may be able to move tables and bookings around and may have a table free around the time you wish to book.

If you have a food allergy or a special dietary requirement please mention it to one of our staff who will inform the kitchen.

Whilst you're here, why not take advantage of our free Wi-Fi :-
